

SAVED TWO WOMEN AND BABY AT FIRE

They Were Near to Suffocation When Fireman Graham Reached Them.

Firemen fought their way through the smoke-filled halls of the four-story tenement at No. 13 Carmine street this morning and rescued two women and a baby while others mounted the fire-escapes, which they found dangerously cracked.

Through carelessness of a boy who went down to the basement woodbin with a candle, the fire was started, it is believed. Fed by many packing-boxes belonging to Edison & Goldstein, dry goods, who occupied the first floor, the flames leaped to the rear of the first floor while suffocating smoke flooded the upper floors.

Assistant Foreman Patrick Graham, of Hook and Ladder No. 29, got his men into the building and fought his way through the smoke to the second floor, where, huddled in a corner, gasping for breath, he found Mrs. Jessie Mages, her sixteen months old boy, Angelo, and her sister, Lillie Sartor. They were all in their nightdresses. Graham caught up the baby in his arms and taking the women by the hands forced his way down the stairs to the street. Angelo, almost dead, the husband and father, was on the fire-escape in his nightclothes at the time.

Lieut. Ward and Driver "Jack" O'Donnell, of Fire Patrol No. 2, swarmed up the fire-escapes and preserved some sort of order among the terrified people, who were rapidly becoming suffocated.

Patrolman Emil Sattler, of the Carmine street station, made his way through the house, but was overcome on the third floor. He broke out a window with his fist, and after he

Artificial Leg for Dog Pet of Miss Betty Morton

Russian Wolfhound Belonging to Her Fiance, Sidney L. Breese, Is to Have Amputated Limb Skillfully Replaced by False One.

Ulanco, the pet Russian wolfhound of Sidney L. Breese, and his fiancee, Miss Betty Morton, is to be measured in the next few days for an artificial leg. Ulanco is now in a dog hospital, where his leg was amputated, and the latest bulletin issued from his bedside conveys this reassuring information:

"Ulanco spent an easy night. His condition is most favorable. He took bread and milk today and wanted meat. The veterinary just removed his band in time to prevent the dog eating something which might hurt him."

It was at the summer home of James Lawrence Breese, Southampton, L. I., that Ulanco ran afoul of the keeper of the Suffolk hounds of the Breese place, who fired a gun to frighten the dog away. Some shot struck Ulanco's leg. Then began a long chase in the Breese barn, which was transformed into a hospital, where sixteen pillows and the softest covers of lamb's wool made Ulanco as comfortable as the nature of his injury would permit.

"He was nursed with the fondest care by Miss Morton, Mr. Breese and many of the other fashionable of the colony, for he was a favorite with all. Every day he was visited by scores of

BARTENDER SHOT, SALOON BOMBARDED

Three Bullets Fly Among Ten Men Seated in Columbus Avenue Cafe.

Patrick Lahay, bartender in the saloon of Frederick Aurling, at No. 820 Columbus avenue, was shot and probably mortally wounded to-day by a young Italian, who escaped. The would-be murderer fired three shots, one of which penetrated to a rear room of the saloon and caused panic among ten men seated there.

The missing man, with another Italian, had entered the place for half a pint of whiskey. The bartender charged 50 cents and they declined to pay. After some argument, however, they gave Lahay the money and departed. In a few moments they returned and again engaged him in a quarrel. The bartender ordered them from the place and both snatched back the bigger of the two fell to the floor from a blow struck by the bartender, whereupon the other drew his revolver and began firing.

Three policemen stood on an opposite corner, but the men got away without being noticed. The police were taken to the J. Flood Hospital in a serious condition. The police of the West One Hundredth street station said the assailant was a barber in the neighborhood, but they declined to give his name.
